

Longtime family business now in third generation

When Lee Roy Smith incorporated Capitol Wholesale Fence Company Inc. on October 5, 1965, he never dreamed he would see the day that he would have three generations of his family working together.

His daughter, Lisa Harrison, is now president of the company, while Smith's first grandson, Derek Smith, is operations manager.

Capitol is one of America's largest independent fence wholesalers, because the philosophy of this company has always been to offer quality fence materials for a fair price.

Capitol Wholesale Fence is a national wholesale distributor of quality fence materials with locations in Nashville, Chattanooga and Lexington, Ky. Capitol sells a wide assortment of chain-link, wood, vinyl, ornamental and access control products to professional fence installers and the occasional do-it-yourselfer.

This company prides itself on having a staff that helps customers find products suited for their needs. If you're interested in having a fence installed, Capitol has a preferred network of dealers to help you find an installer in your area with a quality installation track record.

Capitol Wholesale Fence's headquarters are at 1200 Lebanon Pike in Nashville. For more information, call (615) 244-4923 or visit www.capitolwholesale.com online. ■

Lisa Harrison, Lee Roy Smith and Derek Smith — three generations carrying on the family business.